ECTCPA's Guide to

Connecticut Accounting Employers

Hello, future Certified Public Accountant!

Congratulations on getting to this point of your academic career, and best of luck getting to the finish line. You are about to complete one step on the road to becoming a CPA, a designation that remains one of the most reputable in the business world. We look forward to you continuing that legacy.

In the not-too-distant future, you will be helping companies and people attain their financial goals. Whether it is in private industry, as an auditor for a public accounting firm, a tax specialist, or in any of the myriad specialties ranging from forensics to technology, you will be bringing valuable tools to the job to attain these goals.

Having always worked in a medium-sized public accounting firm, even early on in my career I was working directly with our clients' decision-makers. Within the first few years of my career, I was the main accountant on a number of clients who relied on me to address their financial issues. This is the career waiting for you, as well. It will not take long for you to have a positive impact on your clients' lives.

The Connecticut Society of CPAs (CTCPA) is here to help you along every step of your journey, both as a CPA and while becoming a CPA. This Guide to Connecticut Accounting Employers is a great tool to help you now. In addition to listing a number of local employers, it also has great information on scholarship opportunities, CTCPA membership, volunteer opportunities, and the steps required to become a CPA.

Personally, the CTCPA has helped me tremendously in my career. My first volunteer opportunity was when I joined the CTCPA's Committee for Relations with Colleges and Universities. I quickly realized that volunteering had many benefits. Not only was I helping the accounting community and local colleges and universities, but I was beginning my professional network as well. From there I have taken advantage of many other volunteer opportunities, both within and outside of the CTCPA, and each of them have had a positive impact in my life. By becoming involved, you don't just make the world and your community a better place, but you also make yourself a better person.

I am excited for you and your future, and I look forward to the day when we can welcome you to the ranks of CPA.

Good luck with wherever your future may take you,

Dennis W. Cole, CPA CTCPA President 2019-2020

Accounting Scholarship Foundation

What is the Accounting Scholarship Foundation?

The CTCPAAccounting Scholarship Foundation helps tomorrow's CPAs today by providing scholarships and grants to accounting students at Connecticut high schools, colleges, and universities.

Who provides the financial support?

Each September, the CTCPA hosts a golf tournament with proceeds benefitting the Accounting Scholarship Foundation. Many of the 6,000 members of the CTCPA also choose to make individual contributions in the spirit of promoting the future of the accounting profession.

How much scholarship money is available?

The Accounting Scholarship Foundation hands out nearly $50,000 in scholarships every year. Thanks to a scholarship revamp in 2016, a college student may be awarded up to $16,500 in scholarships over the course of his or her college career! (See the page to the right to view available scholarships or visit www.ctcpas.org/scholarships for more details.)

How can I apply for an Accounting Scholarship Foundation scholarship?

Scholarship applications are available at www.ctcpas.org/scholarships in the spring.

What requirements do I need to meet to qualify for an Accounting Scholarship Foundation scholarship?

Individual scholarship criteria vary so please review each to ensure you meet GPA, credit, etc., requirements. However, all Accounting Scholarship Foundation scholarships do require applicants to be a CTCPA student member. And, remember, CTCPA student membership is free!

Where can I learn more?

Questions? Contact Executive Assistant David Zoppoli at davidz@ctcpas.org or 860-258-0239.

Accounting Scholarships Do the math. Apply today. Earn the money.

Why should a new graduate consider a career here?

We are a medium-sized firm with offices in both New Haven and Fairfield counties. Our belief in creating a culture where work/life balance is highly valued has created a firm that is both fun and boasts low turnover. We strongly believe that our employees are the strength of our firm. Entry level staff are exposed to both the A&A (accounting and auditing) side of the practice, as well as the tax side, to learn both fields. Eventually, one proceeds to favor one of these fields, and will begin specialization in that field after a few years.

Since 1972, Hallisey & D'Agostino, LLP has strived to foster a tight-knit and collegial working environment, devoid of the pretentiousness and undue pressure usually associated with larger firms. To that end, we encourage knowledge sharing and teamwork as much as possible and believe career development and employee morale is paramount. Our diverse client base and service offerings allow new hires to be exposed to numerous disciplines and industries. To keep pace with the ever-changing accounting and tax regulations, we offer both in-house and external continuing education. We continuously monitor technology trends and invest in our IT systems to ensure our people have the best resources available to prepare quality work. We also offer a competitive salary and benefits package, including a 401(k) retirement plan with match. We give back to our community through financial support and sponsorships, and by encouraging our employees to pursue nonprofit positions and volunteer opportunities.

Why should a new graduate consider a career here?

We are a medium-sized firm with offices in both New Haven and Fairfield counties. Our belief in creating a culture where work life balance is highly valued has created a firm that is both fun and boasts low turnover. We strongly believe that our employees are the strength of our firm. Entry-level staff are exposed to both the A&A (accounting and auditing) side of the practice, as well as the tax side, to learn both fields. Eventually, one proceeds to favor one of these fields, and will begin specialization in that field after a few years.

Why should a new graduate consider a career here?

Theodore M. Byxbee, supervising Internal Revenue Agent for New England, formed the T.M. Byxbee Company in 1919. The firm has since grown to become one of Connecticut's leading regional accounting firms, serving a large and diverse client base of primarily small and medium-sized businesses, not-for-profit organizations, individuals, trust, and estates.

We are a dynamic firm offering quality services in our client-oriented approach to both traditional and specialized CPA services. Our general philosophy entails a dedication to providing quality client service, which includes competent professional work performed in a collaborative manner to meet client needs while also providing constructive suggestions and advice. The firm strives for internal advancement and increased responsibility among staff while also maintaining a certain level of continuity of personnel on engagements.

Why should an accounting student consider your program?

Albertus Magnus College is a small, caring community that centers on meeting the individual needs of students. Our accounting programs are designed to prepare students for successful careers by providing them with strong knowledge of accounting principles and business applications. Every student is required to complete an internship in the undergraduate program. Internship supervisors state that our students are well-prepared, have strong accounting knowledge, and are eager to learn. Our faculty have expertise in the field and share their real-world experience with students and work together as a team to assist each student in achieving their academic potential. In our MSA program, we offer a personal financial planning specialization, which fulfills the education requirement for the Personal Financial Specialist (PFS) designation awarded by the AICPA.

Why should an accounting student consider your program?

At Fairfield, we meet you where you are and take you where you want to go! All full-time accounting faculty are not only academically qualified, but also professionally (CPA) qualified. As a result, you can expect guidance from folks who have "been there and done that." Want to take the CPA Exam in another state? No problem. We will help you ensure you have all the right credits to do so. Want to work outside Connecticut? No problem. Fairfield is a "key recruiting school" for the Big 4 and other well-respected accounting firms. Students are routinely placed in out-of-state positions, mainly with the Big 4. Have a unique educational background? No problem there, either. Fairfield students receive individualized advisement to help them meet their professional goals. Want to complete (at least some of) the CPA Exam before you go to work? Consider our MSA program, as the program's structure supports students in their efforts to pass the exam during their graduate studies.

Why should an accounting student consider your program?

SCSU offers a comprehensive undergraduate accounting program taught in a small classroom setting. Our faculty are highly qualified with doctoral degrees and/or real-life experience performing research published in scholarly journals. The concentration in accounting includes 36 credits in accounting which satisfies the Connecticut requirement for accounting education to be licensed as a CPA. The program includes an accounting capstone course and courses in international and forensic accounting. A newly developed course, income tax practicum, allows students to get academic credit for participating in the Volunteer Income Tax Program (VITA). SCSU accounting students are regularly placed in internship and full-time positions in "Big 4" CPA firms.

Why should an accounting student consider your program?

UConn's Accounting Department is one of the top programs in the country and our programs are individually accredited by AACSB International. We are proud that most of our accounting majors have permanent jobs by graduation. Beginning in the fall of 2017, we started offering qualifying undergraduate students, both non-accounting business majors and non-business majors, the opportunity to earn a Minor in Accounting in three to four semesters. UConn's online Master of Science in Accounting program was ranked eighth for online graduate business programs in 2019 by US News & World Report and provides candidates with the skill set critical to a successful professional career in public and private accounting. The program allows qualified students to meet the 150-hour requirement for CPA licensure in most states. We also offer a Certificate in Accounting Fundamentals program for students who may need certain, additional hours to qualify for application to our MSA program, and a separate Advanced Business Certificate in Accounting Analytics.

Why should an accounting student consider your program?

The Master of Science in Accounting program at Westfield State University is designed to prepare students for successful careers in public and private accounting and fosters leadership skills. The program allows students to complete the additional 30 credit hours necessary to fulfill the educational requirements for the Certified Public Accountancy license in Massachusetts and several other states. The program offers a Foundation Curriculum for students who need additional coursework in accounting. The Foundation Curriculum can be completed entirely online with courses offered on a rotating basis (students can also take courses in person). The 30-credit Advanced Curriculum is for students with an undergraduate major or concentration in accounting. The Advanced Curriculum is comprised of 10 courses (the majority of courses are offered in a hybrid format, and certain courses are 100% online) that can be completed in just two semesters! GMAT scores are not required.

*Additional coursework may be necessary for students entering the M.S. Accounting program that do not hold an undergraduate degree in business.

Becoming a CPA Step 1: Get your education.

To sit for the CPA Exam, you'll need a bachelor's degree (120 credit hours) from a regionally accredited four-year college or university that includes at least 46 credit hours in the study of accounting and related subjects.

- At least 24 of those credit hours must be in the study of accounting.
- At least 22 of those credit hours must be in the study of subjects such as business law, economics, and finance.

What's next in education?

You'll need additional credits to apply and become a CPA. Here's the breakdown:

- A total of 36 credit hours in accounting. (Good news you already have your 24 credits that were needed to sit for the exam!)
- Thirty credit hours must be in economics and business administration. (This includes the 22 credit hours you submitted to take the exam.)
- At least 60 credit hours must be in general education. (Excess accounting courses will be considered.)
- These credits may be obtained at any time prior to applying for the CPA credential.

Not sure if you're taking the right classes?

Because no two institutions have identical curricula, there is no way for the CTCPA or the Department of Consumer Protection to prequalify courses. Sit down with an academic advisor at your school to discuss your coursework and determine the path you should take. Setting students up with the right classes is their job – trust their expertise in your major!

Preparation is key.

It takes hard work to pass the CPA Exam. While you can study on your own, you will dramatically increase your chances of passing by taking an exam review course. Review courses are a great way to stay organized and informed and improve your chances of passing all four sections on the first try.

We want you to pass and become a CPA.

We're here to help! CTCPA has partnered with the top exam review course providers to bring you deep discounts. (Remember to check – your employer may also subsidize the cost of the program.) Go to www.ctcpas.org/mycpa for a list of exam review courses.

Becoming a CPA Step 2: Take the CPA Exam.

Now that you've got your education and you meet the requirements, you may apply to sit for the exam via the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (commonly known as NASBA).

- If you are a first-time applicant, take note that it may take up to six weeks for NASBA to process your application and determine your eligibility.
- Subsequent applications to retake or schedule additional parts of the exam are usually processed within a few days.
- Only apply and pay exam fees for the sections you will be taking in a six-month period. Applicable fees are only valid for a six-month testing event and are nonrefundable.

Contact NASBA to get approved to sit for the exam.

2 Call 800-CPA-EXAM or 800-272-3926.

You've been approved. What's next?

Once your application has been processed, you have been deemed eligible to take one or more sections of the CPA Exam, and you've paid all fees, you will receive an NTS from NASBA. Now it's time to schedule one or more exam testing dates through Prometric (the organization that administers the exam at locations nationwide).

Decide when to take CPA Exam.

Choose your schedule by visiting www.prometric.com/cpa. Remember, your NTS is valid for one testing event for each examination section or six months for each examination section, whichever comes first. This includes non-testing months.

CPA Exam Testing Windows:

The exam is offered the first two months of each calendar quarter. Testing is not available in March, June, September, and December. You must schedule your examination appointment at least five days in advance of the test date. However, it is recommended to schedule your exam at least 45 days before the desired test date(s) to increase the likelihood you receive first choice of date, time, and location.

Contact Prometric to schedule your exam.

Becoming a CPA Step 3: Get your real-world experience.

Get your experience.

Candidates are required to have two years of experience obtained while under the supervision of a CPA who's been in good standing for at least three years.

In order for experience to count, it needs to be in four out of the eight categories below:

- Assessment and testing of the adequacy of the employer's internal controls
- · Tax return preparation
- · Tax return research
- Preparation of financial statements

- · Analysis of financial statements
- Cost accounting
- Budgeting
- Professional services performed in the course of practicing public accountancy

*Note: There is no minimum time commitment per category.

The fine print:

- Experience need not be paid and can be in the form of internships or co-ops. However, all experience must be obtained under the supervision of an individual who has held a CPA certificate for no fewer than three years prior to the candidate beginning his or her experience.
- Experience may be obtained in public accounting, industry, or government.
- Experience must be obtained no earlier than 10 years prior to the initial application for certification.
- You must work a minimum of 20 hours a week for your experience to count.
 You can claim a maximum of 35 hours per week.

Plan ahead.

When you apply for your CPA credential, you'll need a completed "Experience Verification Form" (SBA-12) signed by your supervisor. You can download this form from the CTCPA website.

Go to www.ctcpas.org/mycpa.

Becoming a CPA Step 4: Pass the ethics exam.

You're almost there!

Connecticut requires the completion and passage of the AICPA Professional Ethics for CPAs self-study ethics exam.

- · A passing score is 90 percent or better.
- Many candidates pass all four parts of the CPA Exam before taking the ethics exam, but it isn't required.
- Order the exam from CTCPA! Did we mention you get a discount?

About the ethics exam

The ethics exam is nothing to worry about. It is a self-study exam that can be completed at home. You can choose between a printed textbook or OnDemand videos with an online test. Once you've passed the exam, be sure to print your certificate of completion and save it with your paperwork; you'll need this when you apply for your CPA certification.

97

Contact CTCPA to order the ethics exam.

Go to www.ctcpas.org/ethicsexam.

Becoming a CPA

Your CPA Credential: How will you use your CPA?

Decide how you will use your CPA.

Before you apply, you need to decide how you will use your CPA credential. In Connecticut, you have two choices: you may register your certificate, or you may apply for a CPA license. What's the difference? When you complete your application, you will need to choose one of these options:

• Initial CPA Certification and Registration:

Many CPAs in Connecticut choose this option of registering their certificates, which allows use of the CPA credential on correspondence and business cards but is less costly. This does not allow you to represent yourself as a practicing CPA.

Initial CPA Certification and License:

In Connecticut, a CPA license is required to open a public accounting firm, sign audit reports, and other functions. It is the most costly option and also requires you to earn and report 40 hours of CPE each year.

Remember, you always have the option of stepping up or down between these options as your career moves forward.

In summary...

Initial CPA Certification and Registration:

Registering your certificate allows limited use of the title "CPA."

You're allowed to use "CPA" on:

- I etterhead
- Resumes
- Business cards
- Personal checks
- Personal stationery

You're not allowed to:

- Sign a tax return as a CPA.
- Sign off on anything of a financial matter.
- Represent yourself as a practicing CPA.

Initial CPA Certification and License:

The granting of a CPA license allows the unlimited use of the title "CPA" and may be used on all items and actions listed above.

Becoming a CPA Step 5: Apply to be a CPA.

You've earned it – now apply to be a CPA.

After you've completed your education, passed all four parts of the CPA Exam, gained your experience, and passed the ethics exam... you're ready to apply to be a CPA!

Complete the forms:

There are two forms you will need to download and complete:

- CPA Certificate Application (SBA-11)
- Certificate Experience Verification (SBA-12)

Download forms from the CTCPA website.

Go to www.ctcpas.org/mycpa.

Get your official school transcripts:

Request transcripts from the school(s) where you obtained your undergraduate degree(s) and remaining 30 credits for your 150 credits total.

- Transcripts must be official and in a sealed envelope from the school and/or evaluator service to be verified.
- Are you an international student? Get your transcript evaluated by an international transcript evaluation service. Go to www.ctcpas.org/mycpa for service links.

Submit your paperwork:

Now you're ready to submit your paperwork!

- Send your applications and transcripts to the Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection (Don't forget to keep copies for your records.)
- Enclose your check for the application fee, payable to "Treasurer, State of Connecticut."

Submit your paperwork to the DCP.

Send via certified mail to: State of Connecticut

Department of Consumer Protection Board of Accountancy

450 Columbus Blvd., Suite 801

Hartford, CT 06103

What happens next?

Applications are reviewed by the Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection, and will be approved if there are no questions or concerns. Applications with unique circumstances will be placed on the agenda for approval at the next monthly meeting of the State Board of Accountancy. Once approved, candidates will receive an email directly from the Department of Consumer Protection.

UNIVERSITY OF NEW HAVENGraduate Business Programs

M.S. in Taxation

The University of New Haven's M.S. in Taxation program, available fully online or on-ground, attracts a wide range of accountants, attorneys, executives, government employees, and those seeking a career change to taxation. Future CPAs also gravitate to the program. Connecticut law requires CPA candidates to complete 150 academic credit hours of coursework in order to sit for the CPA exam. Our program provides those hours.

M.S. in Accounting

The M.S. degree program in Accounting focuses on preparing students for a career that requires significant exposure to — and a firm grasp of — four sub-disciplines. Al/analytics, corporate, forensic, and taxation concentration options will equip you with the knowledge and ability to understand the role of accounting information in the decision-making process.
